CAPITAL UNIVERSITY.

ORGANIZATION.

This includes the Preparatory or Grammar School, the Collegiate and Theological Departments.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—The object of instruction in this department is to give a solid English education, to lay the foundation for a thorough study of the Classics, Mathematics and German, and especially to prepare for the regular Collegiate course. The time required in this department will always depend upon the proficiency of the individual student.

The studies pursued are: Reading, Writing, Orthography, Arithmetic, Geography, English Grammar, Algebra, German, Latin Grammar, and Reader, Greek Grammar and Reader, Composition and Declamation, Bible Lectures, and, for Church Students, Lectures on Luther's Smaller Catechism.

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.—The regular course in this department embraces a period of three years, and aims at a thorough training upon the foundation laid in the Grammar School, and not merely at conferring the Bachelor's Degree; it reduces the number of studies, but secures greater thoroughness. No student can enter this course, unless his attainments are such that he can pursue the studies of the respective classes with advantage to himself.

Students from other Institutions must sustain an examination and bring certificates of honorable dismissal.

REMARKS ON THE ABOVE COURSE.

This course contains the following subjects :

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The studies of this department embrace a select series of the Latin Classics, accompanied by progressive exercises in the analysis and composition of the language, and a course of Lectures on the Mythology and Antiquities of Rome.

First Year.—Cæsar's Commentaries (Bullion's or Spencer's edition); daily lessons in the Grammar.

Second Year.—Virgil (Cooper's edition); Grammar.

Third Year.—Livy—Lincoln's; Horace; Grammar.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The studies in this department are as follows :

First Year.—Xenophon's Anabasis—Boise's edition; a great portion of the time will be devoted to lessons in Grammar.

Second Year.—Herodotus—Johnson's; Grammar; Greek Testament.

Third Year.—Homer's Iliad—Felton's edition; Grammar, especially prosody; Demosthenes de Corona, or the Prometheus of Æschylus.

Lectures throughout the course on Grecian Mythology, Antiquities, etc.

MATHEMATICS.

The mathematical studies continue through the entire course, embracing Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Analytical Geometry and Calculus, and Lectures on subjects pertaining to the studies.

HISTORY.

The study of Profane and Sacred History continues through the first and second years. The endeavor in this department will be, to conduct the student through a careful review of General and Sacred History; to exercise him in original investigation, and to give some insight into the philosophy of History. The text-books used are Weber's Universal History, and Kurtz's Manual of Sacred History.

GERMAN.

Much attention is paid to this study, which extends through the Preparatory and Collegiate Departments. Ollendorf's Grammar and Adler's Reader are used for beginners; the higher classes have various text-books for translations, and are required to write German compositions.

CHEMISTRY, ETC.

A course of Lectures on Chemistry, Geology, etc., is annually given, with the necessary experiments. All the students are permitted to attend.

DEBATES, ETC.

Weekly debates and exercises in composition and declamation are held under the care of one of the Professors. In these all the College students are required to take part.

DEGREES.

The Degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred upon students who complete satisfactorily the above course. The Masters' Degree is conferred upon graduates of three years standing who have pursued professional studies, and have proved themselves worthy of the honor.

DISCIPLINE.

In the government of the Institution, the Faculty keep in mind that most of the students are of an age which renders some substitute for parental superintendence absolutely necessary. Considering, therefore, the government of the students as a substitute for the regulations of home, they endeavor to bring it as near to the character of parental control as the nature of the case will admit, and to attain the end, not wholly nor chiefly by constraint and the dread of penalty, but by the influence of persuasion and kindness. In the College, however, as well as in the family or community, there may be perverse individuals, whom nothing but the fear of penalty will influence. In respect to such, the Faculty, standing in the place of parent or guardian, consider themselves bound to see that the student be kindly and faithfully advised and admonished. If this correction prove insufficient, regard for the best interests of such young men, and proper care for the other members of the Institution, require that they should be removed. They have forfeited all claims on the Institution, by violating the indispensable conditions on which its advantages are to be enjoyed, and will, therefore, be forthwith returned to their parents or guardians.

The appended rules will be enforced upon all.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The students are required to attend prayers every morning and evening, in the College Chapel, and public worship on Sunday in one of the Lutheran Churches in Columbus, unless their parents or guardians direct otherwise.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two Literary Societies, the Clio and the Hermean, connected with the College, which hold weekly meetings during term time, and possess valuable libraries of select and miscellaneous books. Large halls, well furnished, give ample accommodation for these interesting auxiliaries of College education.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms, as follows: The WINTER TERM, beginning on the first Wednesday in September, continues 26 weeks, including a week's recess at Christmas. The SPRING TERM begins three weeks after the close of the Winter Term, and continues 15 weeks. There will be one long vacation during the months of July and August, and a short one in the Spring.

UNIVERSITY EDIFICE.

This edifice affords ample accommodations for students, Lecture-rooms, Society Halls, and every thing that can render such an Institution attractive. The dimensions are 154 feet in length by 69 in width, three stories above the basement, and a tower 75 feet in height; another elevation being also four stories high. It is situated on a square of four acres, at one of the most elevated points in the vicinity of the city of Columbus, immediately adjoining Goodale Park, which contains forty acres of the most beautiful woodland in the State of Ohio, and is, by the terms of its donation, to be forever reserved as a public park. The building is easy of access from the city, which is rapidly extending in this direction, being on the Worthington road, about a quarter of a mile north of the Railroad Depot, at which a number of roads concentrate. The site is eminently healthful.

GERMAN EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN SEMINARY.

This Institution has, with a few brief intermissions, been in successful operation since 1830. A very large proportion of the ministers representing the Lutheran Church in Ohio, and on the borders of adjoining States, were prepared for the ministry through its instrumentality. It is under the general supervision of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Ohio and adjacent States, and under the special control of a Board of Directors. Although this Board constitutes a part of the Board of Trustees of Capital University, it has an independent organization, and regulates its own affairs.

1. The regulations respecting terms, vacations, boarding, rooms and other external matters, are, in nearly all respects, the same as those of Capital University.

2. The course embraces a series of Lectures in the usual branches of Exegetic, Systematic, Historical and Practical Theology. In the selections of text-books, due reference is had to the original design of the Institution as a Seminary of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, as its name implies and its constitution requires: the principles inculcated being those of the Lutheran Confessions or Symbols. A special opportunity is afforded weekly for practical exercises in Homiletics and kindred matters.

3. The German and English languages are both taught, and both are used as vehicles of instruction. This rule was adopted by the Board in accordance with the instructions of the Synod, the spirit and design of the founders, and the actual wants of the Church. Thus the benefits of the Lectures can be enjoyed by those conversant with either language.

4. The regular course requires from two to two and a half years' attendance. It is earnestly desired that all who have the ministry in view should attend the entire course. Exceptions can be made only in peculiar cases.

5. Satisfactory evidence of good Christian character and standing, of promising talent and devotion to the Church, is required as a qualification for admission. Without such testimonials, no one need apply.

6. No charge is made for tuition.

7. A society is organized among the members of the Theological Class for mutual improvement. It is called the Schmidt Theological Society, after one of the venerated founders of the Institution. The exercises of this association are: Practical Homiletics, Criticism, and the discussion of theological and practical questions.

8. Indigent young men, possessing the necessary qualifications are supported mainly by a Synodical Education Society, which has thus far been a great blessing to the Church.

9. A Library, containing over 2500 volumes, is at the service of members of the Institution, under certain restrictions.

Further particulars, if desired, will at any time be cheerfully furnished by

WM. F. LEHMANN,

Prof. of Theology.

REGULATIONS OF CAPITAL UNIVERSITY.

1. Students rooming in the College building are required to rise at 5 A. M., and to retire at 10 P. M., when the house will be locked, and all lights in students' rooms must be extinguished.

2. Students must be prompt in attention to duties as notified by the bell; and a quiet and gentlemanly demeanor is at all times to be carefully observed.

3. Study hours will continue from 8 A. M. until 12 M., from 2 until 5 P. M., and from 7½ (eight in summer) until 10 P. M. During these hours, as also between the hours of 10 P. M. and 7 A. M., students must be in their rooms, unless engaged in recitation, or excused by special permission.

4. Students in the Grammar School will recite from 8 A. M. until 12½ P. M., having recesses at such hours as their teachers may determine.

5. No noise that would be offensive in a well regulated private family, will be tolerated in the College edifice.

6. Cleanliness and neatness in and about the house will be strictly required; every thing interfering therewith will be considered a serious offense.

7. Students must keep their rooms in good order.

8. When prevented from attending recitations on account of sickness or otherwise, students are expected to report the fact with as little delay as possible.

9. Damage to the property of the Institution must be paid for by the person doing the injury ; if he cannot be ascertained, it will be made good by general assessment upon students.

10. Students are required to be present punctually at roll-call, in the Grammar School, unless excused by parent or guardian.

For three violations of these rules, students are liable to admonition before the Faculty: six violations in one term will cause the dismissal of the offender from the Institution. In more grievous offenses against order and morality, students will be privately admonished, temporarily suspended, or wholly dismissed, as the Faculty consider best for themselves and the Institution.
